Adolf („Adi“) and Rudolf Dassler began to revolutionize the sports shoe industry in 1924 by jointly founding their „Brothers Dassler Sport Shoe Factory“. The two brothers sewed their first shoes in the laundry room of their family home, built in 1900. After parting ways in 1948 each brother founded his own company, now adidas and PUMA. The home is privately owned.