

Nature & environment

The protection of environment, nature and climate has been of particular importance for the Town of Herzogenaurach. This was, for example, emphasized by the creation of the position of environmental protection officer in 1992, as well as the additional position of climate protection officer created in 2015.

The corresponding topics range from the Agenda21 to general environmental education. The following sites provide comprehensive information and interesting links with regard to the protection of trees and nature, development of waters, noise protection, mobile radio and ozone.
